Undergraduate courses taught: MGT 330 Business Environment and Public Policy, MGT 481 Introduction to Environmental Management and 480 Internship course.

What drew you to the field of teaching? I have always loved teaching and learning. Being a professor is like being a life-long student as you must constantly update your knowledge and skills! I also like meeting new people and learning from their experiences.

How to do incorporate current trends or changes in your discipline in the classroom? I aim to include real-life projects with local companies (especially for MGT 481), guest speakers and discussions about current events.
